EAGLES' FESTIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS

Hundreds of Children Gather for Christmas Celebration Given by Local Lodge of Eagles.

Six hundred and fifty-eight children gathered at the great Christmas celebration in the Eagles' hall Sunday afternoon to take part in the festivities planned by the members of that lodge and the ladies' auxiliary. The event was the most successful of its kind ever held in this city, and all who had an opportunity of seeing the delight and gratitude of the hundreds of children are unanimous in their congratulations to the lodge and especially to the ladies of the auxiliary who had so much to do with the arrangement and the carrying out of the elaborate plans.

During the early part of the afternoon the guests listened to a most entertaining program of talks and musical numbers. Christmas carols and selections by a most excellent quartette. Father Mahoney in a few words to the children explained the meaning and ideals of Christmas, and told of how admirably the Eagles were carrying out their ideals in giving a great Christmas festival to which all the children of the city were invited. Mayor Fathers and City Attorney Lantz both spoke on the generosity of the Eagles in making the children happy at this time.

The success of the entertainment was such that it will become an annual event in the local lodge. Last year four hundred presents were distributed, and even these were not enough to go around, while this year the six hundred gifts given out were not enough for all present. The children who did not receive their presents Sunday were given tickets which they exchanged for presents at the Eagles' hall this afternoon.

The afternoon went off without a hitch, despite the great numbers that were present, representatives of both the fire and police departments were there, and a number of the lodge members acted as guards to look after the children. At the end of the program all the children were given a small gift and marched out of the hall, receiving their presents as they left; thus all crowding and disorder was done away with.

The Eagles are most grateful to the many merchants and business men of the city who aided in making the event such a success, and wish to publicly express their thanks to them and to the ladies of the auxiliary to whom most of the credit of the affair is due.

Program of the afternoon was as follows:
Address of Welcome—President Charles Newton.
Remarks by Father W. H. Mahoney.
A few remarks to the children by Reverend Mahoney.
Vocal selection by quartette, "The Sabbath Day." Kreutzer, Janauska, Thiele, Fuchsmann, and Esser.
Children's program.
Selection by quartette.
Address by Brother Lantz.
Vocal selection, Miss Lillian Dudley, Miss Averill Sartell, accompanist.
Address by Mayor Jas. A. Fathers.
Selection by male quartette, "Stille Nacht."
Distribution of presents.

Police in long drive to solve the mystery of drift stalled auto.

Arthur Woodstock, a farmer living about two miles this side of Afton, this morning reported to the police that an automobile bearing South Dakota license tags had been left in a snowbank near his place. At the station a general overhauling of stolen car records was made, but none answering the description of the stalled machine was found, it being thought at first that the car might have been stolen. At eleven o'clock Officers William Gower and Roy Worthington bucked eleven miles of drifts back and forth on the Afton pike and found that the car had been moved. Inquiry at a nearby farmhouse brought the information that it was the property of the Seale boys, at Afton. Meeting Woodstock returning home, he claimed that the Afton car bore Illinois tags. The police are now figuring just yet which state issued the tags.

JANESVILLE SHIPS MANY XMAS GIFTS

Express Companies and Postoffice Report Huge Christmas Shipments This Year.

If the size of the Christmas business done by the two express companies and the postoffice of this city is an indication of the prosperity of the city, Janesville is surely in a most favorable position to fight the high cost of living. While no exact figures could be given out by the officials of the above transportation agencies, it is not only received an exceptionally large number of Christmas gifts, but also dispatched to friends and relatives about the country a record number of Christmas presents in the form of substantial presents.

Both the express companies have been working incessantly for the past week, and by exerting every effort managed to keep up with the business so that they are now in a position to figure up results and take stock of the phenomenal shipments made from this city.

The postoffice was only able to handle the excessive Christmas mail by adding to the force a number of extra clerks and by working every day during the past few days the heavy shipments and the bad storms have played havoc with many schedules in all parts of the country. Of Christmas business, where the postoffice department was inefficient to handle the increased business.

Where delays have been felt the cause in most cases has been due to the heavy traffic for express companies during the past few days the heavy shipments and the bad storms have played havoc with many schedules in all parts of the country. Of Christmas business, where the postoffice department was inefficient to handle the increased business.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAS FINE SERVICES

Christmas Services at First Christian Church Bring Large Offering From Classes.

Christmas services at the First Christian church on Sunday evening were most successful from the point of view of the size of the congregation, the beauty of the services, and the offering to the platform of the church was decorated with white hangings, with a large picture of the announcement to the shepherds as the background. Christmas was glorified with snow set off the whole scene.

The anthems of the choir, under the direction of Mr. Davidson, were especially good. At the close all confessed their faith in the Lord Christ.

The offering given by the different classes was most generous. The money amounted to over twenty dollars. It is to be divided between the board of ministerial relief and the St. Louis orchestra of the church. The classes that did not give money brought clothing, handkerchiefs and dolls, which are to be sent to the children at the orphanage.

The service was made up of the following numbers:
Prelude—Mrs. F. A. Baldick, organist.
Professional—"As With Gladness," Clark Walker Cummings.
Anthem.
Responsive Scripture Reading.
Readings—Legend of Cathay—Miss Stokely.

THE LARGEST WHOLESALE FRUIT AND PRODUCE PLANT IN SOUTHERN WISCONSIN

WE are glad to announce to the trade the removal of our rapidly growing business into the large roomy building pictured above formerly occupied by the John C. Nichols Harness Co., on the corner of North High and West Bluff Sts. The largely increasing volume of our business, extended to us from all parts of Southern Wisconsin, necessitated this change so that we could more readily accommodate the needs of our customers.

Twenty years ago this business was started in Janesville by E. J. Murphy, the present manager, with a small democrat wagon and a small portion of the building which is now No. 9 South River St., owned at that time by Mr. F. M. Hibbard. After some two years of persistent endeavor on the part of Mr. Murphy the business then demanded larger quarters which were taken in the Skelley building at No. 9 S. Jackson St. From time to time the growing demands of the business for storage and other purposes increased until at the time of the removal into this new home the business was occupying three other storage warehouses. Now everything is included under one roof, including three large floors each 100 feet long and 50 feet wide with trackage at the door enabling the business to be transacted with the utmost despatch and economy. Ten men are employed the year around with three salesmen on the road.

HOW WE BUY

Mr. M. E. Hanley, a man with thirty year's experience in this business, president of Hanley Bros., with headquarters at No. 79 S. Water street, Chicago, the heart of the wholesale fruit and produce center of the Northwest, is always on the job looking after the buying end of this Janesville branch and three other branch houses located at Beloit, Racine and Kenosha. This personal service in buying by the head of the firm guarantees to our customers the very best qualities in fruits and vegetables at all times. Mr. Hanley has men at every buying point throughout the country, buying not only by carloads but by trainloads.

It is a common thing for Hanley Bros., to buy an entire growing output before it is picked for the market. This affords the public an opportunity to receive the full benefit of our tremendous buying capacity.

Even a casual glance at our four big banana rooms full of banana fruit in the various stages of ripening, the cars standing at our platform awaiting unloading and our spacious storage room filled to overflowing with the best the market affords, will give a fair example of the enormous business which we do and the big outlet which we have for quick sales.

WHERE WE BUY

We buy delicious fruits and appetizing vegetables from every clime. Remote places of origin mean nothing so long as the incoming shipments arrive suitable for distribution to our hundreds of particular customers.

It is indeed an appetizing sight to see the various fruits and vegetables stacked up in our warehouses in tremendous quantities. It comes from all parts of the compass and affords our customers an opportunity to have every desirable fruit and fresh vegetable in season and most frequently out of season.

HOW WE SELL

We wholesale to retail grocers only and it is our constant endeavor to furnish them with the finest available quality of fruit and produce so that they may continue to merit public patronage at all times.

The profits of our business are based entirely upon "volume" and it is therefore necessary to run large amounts of merchandise in the shortest possible time. Quick service to our customers and the rapid turning of incoming shipments enables us to do business on a very small margin.

We take great pride in stating that our business has grown very rapidly owing to the fact that we buy the best qualities of delicious fruits and vegetables and never misrepresent the condition or actual value of the merchandise handled. We jealously guard our reputation for integrity and the extensive business which we enjoy has been our reward.

WHERE WE SELL

Wherever the telephone reaches, wherever express packages go, wherever the railroads traverse and wherever parcels post is delivered within a hundred miles of Janesville there you will find Hanley Bros. making shipments to live dependable dealers who seek to give their customers the best the market affords at sensible prices.

Much of our preparation for shipping is done in the "wee small hours" of the early morning in order to make connections with transportation companies so that when a storekeeper opens his store in the morning, even though at a distant point, he is able to greet his customers with a fresh supply of delicious fruits and fresh vegetables just as good as when they were picked in the field. Thus far this season we have sold 70 carloads of potatoes or an equivalent of 3 solid trainloads.

THREE NEW LINES ADDED RECENTLY: Within the past two years we have added other merchandise, feeling that by so doing we would very much benefit our customers. The lines added are well and favorably known and stand for the best of their kind. JELKE'S "GOOD LUCK" MARGARINE, COLBY CHEESE and SEALPACKT OYSTERS.

POLICE SUSPICIOUS OF ROCKFORD PARTY ARRESTED XMAS EVE

Wrecks His Car in Accident and Then Tears License Tags Off—Xmas Auto Missing—Police Think Him Thief.

James L. Hanna, 1042 Woodland avenue, Rockford, Ill., Janesville municipal court this morning, pleaded not guilty to the charge of carrying a concealed weapon and was sent to jail until January 4, under $100 bail, but behind the court action there is a lot more than the allegation that Hanna had a loaded revolver.

The desire to spend his Christmas day away from his home in a wild automobile drive through snow-blocked country roads and then a narrow escape from death as the speeding car climbed a twelve foot embankment and then slipped sideways and rolled back, turning turtle, a brand new automobile meant for a Christmas present stolen and the final capture of Hanna in a hotel with the license tags of his own car, together with a black-jack and a loaded pistol secreted in his bedding—all this will have to be explained.

Hanna was arrested at a local hotel after a farmer named O'Neil, who lives at Leyden, reported to the police Saturday night that the automobile which he had just purchased that afternoon as a Christmas gift had been stolen from the rear of the W. T. Sherer drug store on South Franklin street. A little while later the fact that the description of the man who had been seen cranking the car tallied with that of a man Officer William C. Rogers had observed on the streets several times that evening.

Then came a telephone message from Milton parties describing an automobile accident at the road forks at the intersection of Madison and Prospect avenues, the refusal of the automobilist to accept assistance and his suspicious actions in tearing Illinois license tags from his machine. This description of the car and the Milton parties fit those two the police already had.

The police traced the man to the hotel and found him to be Hanna, who had been seen at the hotel. He stole the O'Neil car. A short while later another telephone message brought the information that this machine was but a few rods from the end of the car line on Milton avenue. The police went after it and discovered that the front seat just over the gasoline tank had been burned. Under the spark plugs were adjusted it was impossible to start the machine. From the condition of the plugs it was figured that the thief, thinking the gas cap and measured the supply, forgetting afterwards to replace the cap. Backfire caused the seat to become ignited, but the absence of a draft caused the flame to smolder and finally die out. Hanna refused to admit that he took this machine. Explaining his purpose in tearing the tags from his machine, Hanna told the police that he did not care to leave any evidence whereby they could in any way inform his wife that he had an accident as he planned to spend the day at Elkhor, a well-known to her. He missed the road entirely, the way he went.

Everyday Wisdom BY DON HEROLD

I WANT A COMBINED AUTOMATIC TWO-MINUTE SUIT, SHIRT, SOCKS AND TIE. AUTOMATIC TIES. It takes us humans a large part of our lives to dress and undress ourselves. We are continuously buttoning and unbuttoning. Nature did us a great wrong in making us buttoning creatures. Nature could have saved us about 45 minutes a day if she had had a mind to. But we are born for the bath—not for the boulevard.

We have heard objections to the automatic tie—the tie that hooks instantly and buttonlessly over the front collar-button. Personally, we have no sympathy with such objections. We admire the courageous convictions of the man who wears a tie that he can stick on like a bouquet. There are times plenty when we, personally, get tired of "pulling our own" when it comes to ties.

And, furthermore, we praise the coming of the day—a day of greater efficiency in all things—when man will have taken a lesson from the fire-horse. Not only his tie will be automatic, but every garment he wears will have simply slipped on and hooked up to his bed or out of his bath into a complete outfit of automatic clothing, and fasten same in about a half minute and pass on to his condensed breakfast.

Then we will have more time for Robert Browning, for Shakespeare, for golf, for Charlie Chaplin, and for other phases of a more cultural life. "Nature," says somebody, "is necessary to true culture."

CARDS WIN, 35-17 OVER TRIANGLES; TIPPETS ARE NEXT

Hamlin Triangles of Chicago Downed
Saturday Night in Furious Game.

Lakota club Cardinals, entire except for the presence of Vic Heman, Saturday night at the Auditorium showed five hundred spectators that they had not yet forgotten the playing form which for two years has made them champions of the central west, when they licked the Hamlin Triangles of Chicago, 35-17.

It was a fast and rough game with the give and take splitting half a century each. The visitors opened up with some real naughty tactics at one time, but they happened to pick out the wrong man, Edler and Dalton. After Edler twisted the ankle of one Triangle as he attempted to rough a Janesville player who was on the floor, the rough stuff was greatly eliminated.

The Cards opened up early and had secured a lead of eight points before a foul on McCaffrey gave Dalton opportunity to cage a free throw. Mac had dropped in the first basket, following which Eddie Atwood capped three in machine-gun like precision. Edler and Dalton at the guard positions were holding their men scoreless for the greater share of the half, while the Cardinal forwards were slipping away for occasional baskets. Dalton and Trettin, the latter the Hamlin captain, broke even on baskets, each getting one. Edler was held to a single basket in the first half, but when the lineup shifted in the second period and he went to forward there was no stopping him. He threw five, one of them a pretty and long shot from the side.

The half ended 14 to 7 with the Lakotas on the long end.

It was not until the visitors had climbed within two points of their lead that Dalton dropped a long one in, and with this the slaughter started. Edler came across with three more in succession. Atwood counted two and then Edler threw a fourth goal and two from the field and with three straight by Atwood the scoring closed.

Each team fouled six times. Atwood missed one foul shot; Edler slipped on four and it was up to Dalton to get the last. He did.

The Triangles split even on their attempts. The weakness in getting free throws must be eradicated on the part of the Cards. The misses were immaterial Saturday night, but they were not the week previous in the Bushey game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MAN WHO SAVED IT PENSIONED FOR LIFE

Present Polo Grounds Gate Keeper
Lost Fortune to Keep Organization
Up During Stormy Days.

New York, Dec. 26.—After allowing John B. Day to take out his existence for years by tending gate at the Polo grounds and selling the "John B. Day" cigar to saloons, the National league, at its recent meeting in New York, finally decided to take care of the man who saved the league from annihilation in the dark days of the Brotherhood league.

The league voted to give the former president of the Giants a pension for the remaining years as smooth as they can. It was back in 1890 that the Brotherhood revolted and formed the Players' league. John B. Day was then president of the Giants and owned a controlling interest in the club. In spite of the fact that the most prominent players of the game were deserting the National league, and things looked mighty dark for the old league, Day refused to give up. He stuck by the league through everything and by so doing he lost his fortune.

When the reorganization took place and the players were counted out, Day was broke. He didn't have any money and consequently had no place in the new league. The men he had helped wrecked the old league forgot him. He was shoved out in the cold. Not only was he cast aside as a club member, but he was virtually ostracized.

Previous to this time he had been a tobacco dealer in Malden Lane and had used that business to help build up his fortune. When the crash came that business went with the other.

In late years he has been tending a gate at the Polo grounds, accepting a daily pay for his services. To help out he has walked from saloon to saloon, selling the cigars which he made and which bore his name. Last summer he suffered a slight attack of paralysis, and just before the National league meeting it struck again and his case was given up as hopeless. Then only did the National league go to his assistance.

Day hasn't many years to live, but they probably will be filled with gratitude, not recrimination. He was the kind of a man who always accepted everything as it came.

MANY TRAVELED WITH LYMAN HOWE

Popular Semi-annual Travelogue Pictures of Howe Enjoyed by Many at New Myers Theatre on Christmas Day.

Again it has been demonstrated that it is as instructive and much less laborious and annoying to travel with Howe than doing it yourself, and also much cheaper.

On a trip of exceeding charm was made to Hawaii, "The Paradise of the Pacific," during which the reaping of the sugar cane harvest was depicted as well as a railway ride along the coast of Hawaii—a veritable land of enchantment. At Waikiki Beach, "The Atlantic City" of the islands, natives were shown surf riding. One of the most striking contrasts of this wonderful picture was that afforded by the stupendous spectacle of awfulness and desolation in the crater of the volcano at Kilauea—yet seen in the midst of so much luxuriant beauty and tropical loveliness that it might be aptly described as an "Inferno in the heart of an Eden."

Another highlight of that astounding with a succession of scenic sensations was that which took the spectators through the stupendously impressive floods of Norway—land of the midnight sun. From Norway to sunny Spain ordinarily would require days, and days of tedious travel, and especially at the present time when travel has been organized traveling facilities so completely, but in the Howe entertainment the transition was made in an instant and those who made the pictorial journey saw the gardens of the Alcazar, the Bay of Seville, peasant fishermen landing a big catch of sardines, women spinning wool, and the fairest of Spain's fair señoritas dancing the fascinating "La Jota."

From the realm of bird life superb reproductions in the colors of nature were presented as well as some of the most beautiful and catching scenes of new animated comedy cartoons.

Life at the United States military academy at West Point was also presented in a manner that makes a profound impression on spectators of the methods and varied training, activities and discipline employed to develop the cadets to the highest degree of efficiency.

Mr. Murray modestly acknowledges that he is too popular for his own convenience when it comes to presiding at functions of one kind and another.

For every sporting event—whether it be prize fights, wrestling matches, auto races, or the presentation of prizes for these or similar events—Mr. Murray must preside, and just in time. He was the moving spirit of the big Thanksgiving movie ball, for he had the entire affair in charge and carried off plenty of honor for himself and more for the stars and their friends.

Mr. Murray has become an institution in his community and whenever there is anything to be done that requires a master hand everyone says: "Let Charlie Murray do it"—and Charlie does.

SWEETER THAN SUGAR, AND JUST NINETEEN.

William Fox is introducing a new star—Gladys Coburn. She is said to be sweeter than sugar, and just nineteen. She left school for the theater and was later "found" by Julian Eltinge, who gave her a part in his "The Crinoline Girl." Then William Fox found her, and gave her the part of a girl in "The Battle of Life," so much did he think of her ability and beauty. She acts for the pictures like a veteran.

FLORA FINCH COMES BACK.

Flora Finch, who resigned some time ago to take a much needed rest, will return to regular activity as soon as the newly organized Flora Finch Comedy company can get Miss Finch's supporting cast assembled.

Flora Finch can easily be termed a pioneer photo play comedienne. She was a great favorite in the days when her extreme thinness was a foil for the late John Bunny's avoirdupois. Since her retirement she has devoted much of her time to running a moving picture theater in New Rochelle.

LIKES PRETTY THINGS.

A society debutante could be outfitted for a strenuous season's campaign for the price of one cowboy costume and paraphernalia in the wild west wardrobe of William S. Hart. And there are several outfits. The price of the articles of one outfit alone, figured at manufacturer's cost, is $1,006. His hand-made, silver mounted saddle cost $400; and his jeweled spurs $175.

Roscoe Arbuckle is finishing a comedy picture laid in a bakery, and the shop girl, pretty Alice Lake, York, plays opposite the comedian.

Little a actress with eyes that speak louder than words, and she is an accomplished actress and can dance in a professional way. She likes the coast very much.

the guise of Santa Claus was supposed to be on his route, which covered Janesville, Beloit and adjacent towns. He played his part very well, indeed all the performers did. It was evident that some one had put in a lot of work coaching the children for the parts were taken so well.

Less credit in due Miss Nell Greene who trained the entire company, this being her first attempt at such a big task.

Mrs. E. Stephen at the piano and Will McGraw's violin accompaniment contributed to the success of the evening. The Clinton Home Orchestra rendered several selections which were heartily applauded by the audience. The ready assistance of the orchestra is much appreciated. A short accompanying program was provided a feature of which was the variety of welcome by a diminutive lad, Richard Ames. The following children gave recitations: Marla Wilks, Ethel Korb, Adrina Niman, Frankie Ames, Violet Korb, Larry Ames, Earl McGraw, Florence Olson, after which the gifts and candy from the Christmas tree were distributed with great merry making.

During the evening a special offering was taken up for the relief of children in distress in war-stricken lands. About fifty dollars was received.

FARM MANAGERS IN TWENTY-ONE COUNTIES WILL COMPLETE RECORDS

Farmers in the twenty-one counties of Wisconsin who have entered the state farm management contest this year, are busy "closing" their accounts.

This is the fifth consecutive year of farm management demonstration and contest work in the state, which was started in 1912 at the suggestion of Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard. According to officials in charge of the contest, fully 75 percent of the 900 farmers who accepted books at the beginning of the year, will probably complete their accounts and turn them over to be checked and tabulated.

Through the co-operation of business interests, agricultural schools, high school and commercial clubs, it has been possible to greatly extend the work without adding to the financial burden of those engaged in it. Funds for record books have been provided in this manner, as well as special cash prizes for state and county winners.

Counties where farmers are enrolled in the better business campaign and by means of systematic bookkeeping are building up confidence in their profession, are:

Barron, Douglas, Dunn, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Green, Jefferson, La Crosse, Langlade, Lincoln, Oneida, Polk, Price, Racine, Rock, St. Croix, Sauk, Taylor, Waukesha, Winnebago and Wood.

The work of receiving and transmitting the yearly accounts of the eighty-seven Rock county farmers who kept farm management records this year rests with the executive committee of the Rock County Farm Improvement association. W. J. Dougan, Beloit, and L. A. Markham, Janesville, will have charge of the work.

GOLD BODIES IF IT AIN'T YOU DON'T HAVE TEA GRIND ON IT. I'VE GOT IT ALL RIGHT.

AND THE SIZE CHEW DON'T HALF AS BIG AS YOUR OLD ONE. IT TASTES BETTER, TOO, AND WILL LAST LONGER.

THE young fellows teach the old ones and the old ones teach the young—that's the way it is with W-B CUT chewing right along. Less chewing for feeble jaws, less chewing for husky jaws—but the big point is satisfaction. Never before has there been so much satisfaction in so little a chew. It's rich tobacco, W-B CUT is. It makes you feel sorry for the fellows who chew so much of the old kind for so little benefit.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am an unmarried lady thirty-seven years of age. I have taught school for a great many years, but have only been here two years. This last year I have had a dear little girl in my class whom I have learned to love. Her father has come to school after her in his machine several times and has taken me riding with him. I love the father, too, and he has asked me to marry him. I would not hesitate only to feel that he does not love me as much as I love him. He is four years older than I am. Do you think it would be wise to marry him if he is asking me to?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a big wart between my fingers and several smaller ones on top of my hand. How can I get rid of them? WORRIED.

Nitric acid will remove warts very quickly. Wind a small piece of cotton batting on the end of a toothpick, dip it into the acid and apply it to the wart. If you touch the skin around the wart it will burn. Apply the acid every other day about three times and the wart will dry up and fall off.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When a girl goes to a dance with a boy does she give him her wraps? (2) I have never gone to a dance, but I know how to dance, because I have danced at my home and at other girls' houses. When it is time to go home, who should mention it, the boy or the girl? (3) Am I going to have a party Christmas vacation. Would it be all right to take the boy who has asked me to go to the dance? I haven't told him I love him, but he has come to me three times and taken me away once.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to ask a girl to marry me. Do you think it would be nice to give her a diamond ring for a Christmas JOHNS.

If the girl loves you enough to marry you she would be delighted with a diamond for a Christmas present. If she does not love you, it is better to give her a diamond for an engagement present and something else for Christmas; it need not be expensive.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

HEALTH AND APPETITE

Professor Walter B. Cannon of Harvard has probably done more for the nutrition of the human race than any other one man. Dr. Cannon has found that once the secretion of gastric juice is instituted, by the sight or smell of savory food or by the taste of food, it in turn stimulates the stomach and the gastric secretion and it also stimulates muscular contractions, thus setting up the peristaltic movements of digestion. These wave movements carry the digesting food onward into the duodenum, where the acid of the gastric juice stimulates the secretion of the alkaline pancreatic juice for further digestion of the food (chyme) from the stomach.

The important principle that Cannon has elucidated is the correlation between appetite and the taste and smell of food—and the digestion of that food in the stomach and small intestine. The same thing applies to the flow of bile into the duodenum, an important part of intestinal digestion. The proper conditioning of the whole digestive process rests upon the satisfaction of the palate, you see. Shakespeare hit upon this great physiological truth long ago when he said that "good digestion waits upon appetite and health on both."

Household Hints

TO MAKE OLD BREAD NEW.
When bread is stale, damp it all over with milk, put it in a hot oven for about twenty minutes; you will have a nice new loaf. It is better done the day before needed.

HOW TO SAVE TEA.
Before using tea, spread it on a sheet of paper and place it in a warm but not hot oven from ten to fifteen minutes. By doing this tea will go much further and the flavor will be much improved. By this method there is a saving of a quarter pound on every one pound of tea.

THE USES OF TISSUE PAPER.
Don't throw away any tissue paper from your bread or other parcels, but smooth out and lay it away in a drawer for future use. A small pad of tissue paper sprinkled with methy-lated spirits will give a most brilliant polish to mirrors or picture glasses or windows. The pad used without the spirit is very good for polishing silverware and also for rubbing grease spots off furniture.

SALAD-DRESSING.
Chateau Dressing:—Take a glass of the best currant jelly; whip it until there are no lumps of any kind. Have your bowl in an ice chest and add to the jelly one teaspoon of chopped green pepper, one teaspoon of chopped pimientos, one teaspoon of chopped chives, salt and paprika to taste.

Thousand Island Dressing. (one pint)—One-fourth pint mayonnaise, one-fourth pint chili sauce, one-half green pepper (chopped), one-half Spanish red pepper (chopped), a little chopped chives or parsley (chives preferred). Mix well together.

Thousand Island Salad Dressing.—Two tablespoons chili sauce, two tablespoons mayonnaise, one teaspoon chopped green pepper, one teaspoon chopped chives, salt and paprika to taste.

THE TABLE.
Southern Tea Biscuit—If you want these for supper at 6 o'clock they must be started at 1 o'clock. Into a quart of water put one teaspoon each of sugar and salt, and a tablespoon each of sugar and salt, and a tablespoon each of lard and butter. Dissolve in a little warm water, add cup of milk and mix well with the flour. Cover, set in warm place to rise. When light turn out onto baking sheet and roll out to thickness of half an inch. Cut into rounds and put together with melted butter between. Let rise an hour and bake in moderate oven.

Cranberry Roly-Poly.—Make a dough as for baking powder biscuit; roll half inch thick, spread cooked and sweetened cranberries on dough, roll up, tuck ends in and pinch together. Butter a steamer, put in pudding and steam for one hour. To be eaten with a rich sauce or cold. For growing boys, as it fills them up. "Paprikas" With Dumplings (Slovak style); very economical and serves six adults. Two pounds veal (cheapest cut will do), cut in very small pieces; wash well. Take tablespoon lard, cut one onion fine, set over fire; when hot put in meat, sprinkle well with paprika and salt, cover and let stew on low fire one and one-half hours, adding water (one-half cupful at a time) and stirring frequently. Add two cups flour, one egg, pinch of salt, enough water to make stiff batter; mix well. Drop by teaspoonful in boiling water, cooking for ten minutes; drain through colander. Pour a pint of milk over meat, add dumplings and let boil three minutes, salting to taste. Chicken may be done the same way and cream used instead of milk. Serve with mashed potatoes.

RICE PUDDING.
Bake in a slow oven for two hours three cups of rice, one cup of milk, sugar to taste, raisins and one teaspoon vanilla. Stir occasionally. Serve cold.

LOEB TO INSTALL MERIT SYSTEM FOR TEACHERS
Chicago, Dec. 26.—To "ob-serve proper respect for authority" will be the irksome task of school mothers as well as their pupils in the future here. President Loeb of the board of education will install a merit system for teachers beginning Jan. 1, in which "proper respect for authority" will count most. The plan follows trouble with the teachers' federation which has protested arbitrary dismissal of teachers by the board.

The Highflyers

Marjory Hears Bad News and Scents Foul Play.

"Marjory, I have the worst news for you," said Tom, coming into the boudoir where his wife lay curled up on the couch with a novel. "You must be brave and try to help me all you can, for—"

"What is it?" asked the girl in great excitement, springing up and dropping the book on the floor.

"We are not going to get any more money," said Tom, blushing at the dreadful truth that he might have to give up his job.

"Why, they traced the relationship without any laws," he said directly to the man who left the property and heirs there in England. Marjory had sprung up and stood with eyes wide with fear looking at her husband.

"They found an heir in the direct line," answered Tom, "and they are going to sue for the property. I don't believe it. It is just a scheme to cheat us out of our rights."

"You burst forth in a fierce voice. 'Why do you submit to such treatment?' The lawyer writes that he has sifted the evidence and is convinced that there is no flaw in it. 'Why didn't they know about this heir in the first place? They said there was no one to claim it,' she cried wildly.

"Listen, dear. It seems there was a secret marriage that no one knew about. The heir is a young man, unmarried and now it is proven that he had been married and had a son. Therefore the property belongs to him. Tom said along without seeing him, but she was too excited to sit down.

"I do not believe a word of it. It is a trumped up case, anybody can see that."

"The lawyer says he has gone over the proofs and is convinced that there was a legal marriage," Tom felt that he was beating against a stone wall; he could make no impression on his wife.

"He has been paid a sum of money to decide that they are legal without a doubt."

"Even if that is so," answered Tom, "we have no money to bid higher for a different verdict."

"Do you mean you are going to tamely submit to this injustice; that you are going to sit down and be cheated out of everything?" blazed the girl.

"What else can I do?" he asked wearily. Marjory began crying, flinging herself on the couch in the abandonment of grief.

"There, dear, you're all upset," he patted her head in a half-hearted way.

"So clever of you to see it. Most people would not have noticed it," snapped the desperate girl.

"See here, Marge, you act as if I had personally defrauded you. I guess it will fall as heavily on me as anyone with the debts piled up sky high. Say, one sharp thing is not going to make a bad situation better. Tom's tone was dreary in the extreme.

"Oh, it has got to be gasolined gloves and meow meow dresses and the wolf at the door all the time," she sobbed, wiping her eyes with the wet ball of a handkerchief in her hot hand.

"Now you see why I was so disturbed when the papers published our expectations. If things had been kept quiet, as I wanted them to be, we would be living quietly in the apartment and no one would be the wiser."

"Of course you were not to blame that the notice got in the paper," Marjory was thankful that Tom did not know she had given the reporter information.

"I guess I was not the only one who bought on credit," was the angry retort.

"There, I did not mean to reproach you. Blame timber is easy to find but we cannot repair our broken fortunes with that." Tom rose and walked off and down the room.

CHICAGO NEGRO PROBLEM BECOMING MORE ACUTE.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Chicago, Dec. 26.—Rapid influx of negroes here has created a problem of importance to Chicago today. The colored population is estimated at between 40,000 and 75,000. The "black belt" is rapidly widening.

Considered of most importance in connection with the situation is the residence problem. The negro district has become a haven of vice, driven

The Tongue and Typhus.
According to P. Remlinger, quoted in the Journal of the American Medical Association, an infallible method of telling whether a patient has typhoid for paratyphoid or the much more serious typhus is to ask him to put out his tongue. The typhoid or paratyphoid patient does it without effort, but if he has typhus he cannot get it beyond his teeth.

SCHOOL TEACHER

Wards Off Nervous Break Down.
Alburtis, Pa.—I am a teacher in the public schools and I got into a very nervous run-down condition. I could not sleep and had no appetite. I was tired all the time. My sister asked me to try Vinol. I did so, and within a week my appetite improved and I could sleep all night and now I feel well and strong.—Rosa M. Keller, Alburtis, Pa.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the dangers of "headache medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can affect stomach or heart, as some internal medicines do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

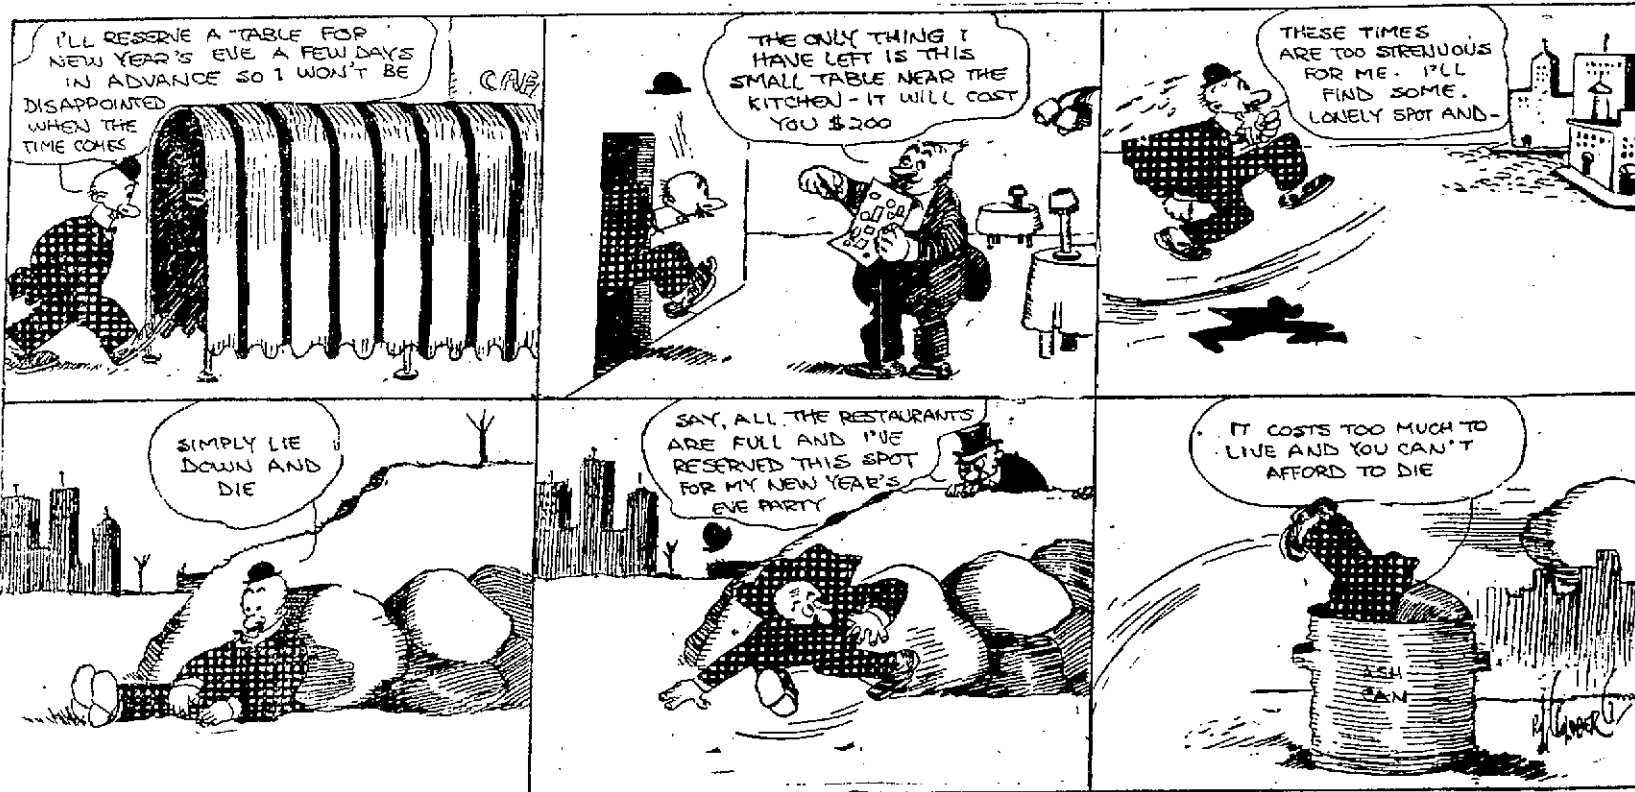

Good Old Home-Made Family Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind—Easy and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare. Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils. This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and soothes the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with quaiquin and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, comes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IT COSTS TOO MUCH TO LIVE AND YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO DIE.

"K"

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

But here abruptly Sidney found the great injustice of the world—that because of this vice the good suffer more than the wicked. Her young spirit rose in hot rebellion.

"It isn't fair!" she cried. "It makes me hate all the men in the world. Palmer cares for you, and yet he can do a thing like this!"

Christine was pacing nervously up and down the room. Mere companionship had soothed her. She was now, on the surface at least, less excited than Sidney.

"They are not all like Palmer, thank heaven," she said. "There are decent men. My father is one, and your K. here in the house, is another."

CHAPTER XIII.

Young Howe had been firmly resolved to give up all his bachelor habits with his wedding day. In his indolent, rather selfish way, he was much in love with his wife.

But with the inevitable misunderstandings of the first months of marriage had come a desire to be appreciated once again at his face value. Grace had taken him, not for what he was, but for what he seemed to be. With Christine the veil was rent. She knew him now—all his small inducements, his pretensions, his weaknesses. Later on, like other women since the world began, she would learn to dissemble, to affect to believe him what he was not.

Grace had learned this lesson long ago. It was the A B C of her knowledge. And so, back to Grace came Palmer Howe, not with a suggestion to renew the old relationship, but for comradeship.

Christine sulked—he wanted good cheer; Christine was intolerant—he wanted tolerance; she disapproved of him and showed her disapproval—he wanted approval. He wanted life to be comfortable and cheerful, without recriminations, a little work and much play, a drink when one was thirsty. Distorted though it was, and founded on a wrong basis, perhaps, deep in his heart Palmer's only longing was for happiness; but this happiness must be of an active sort—not content, which is passive, but enjoyment.

"Come on out," he said. "I've got a car now. No taxi working its head off for us. Just a little run over the country roads, eh?"

It was the afternoon of the day before Christine's night visit to Sidney. The office had been closed, owing to a death, and Palmer was in possession of a holiday.

"Come on," he coaxed. "We'll go out to the Climbing Rose and have supper."

"I don't want to go."

"That's not true, Grace, and you know it."

"You and I are through."

"It's your doing, not mine. The roads are frozen hard; an hour's run into the country will bring your color back."

"Much you care about that. Go and ride with your wife," said the girl, and flung away from him.

The last few weeks had filled out her thin figure, but she still bore traces of her illness. Her short hair was curled over her head. She looked curiously boyish, almost sexless.

Because she saw him vince when she mentioned Christine, her ill temper increased. She showed her teeth.

"You get out of here," she said suddenly.

denly. "I didn't ask you to come back. I don't want you."

"Good heavens, Grace! You always know I would have to marry some day."

"I was sick; I nearly died. I didn't hear any reports of you hanging around the hospital to learn how I was getting along."

He laughed rather sheepishly.

"I had to be careful. You know that as well as I do. I know half the staff there. Besides, one of—" He hesitated over his wife's name. "A girl I know very well was in the training school. There would have been the devil to pay if I'd as much as called up."

"You never told me you were going to get married."

Cornered, he slipped an arm around her. But she shook him off.

"I meant to tell you, honey; but you got sick. Anyhow, I—I hated to tell you, honey."

He had furnished the flat for her. There was a comfortable feeling of coming home about going there again. And, now that the worst minute of

In the end she gave in. And on the way out he lived up to the letter of their agreement. The situation exhilarated him: Grace with her new air of virtue, her new aloofness; his comfortable car; Johnny Rosenfeld's discreet back and alert ears.

The adventure had all the thrill of a new conquest in it. He treated the girl with deference, did not insist when she refused a cigarette, felt glowingly virtuous and exultant at the same time.

When the car drew up before the Schwitzer place, he slipped a five-dollar bill into Johnny Rosenfeld's not over-clean hand.

"I don't mind the ears," he said.

"Just watch your tongue, lad," and Johnny stalled his engine in sheer surprise.

"There's just enough of the Jew in me," said Johnny, "to know how to talk a lot and say nothing, Mr. Howe."

Johnny Rosenfeld at eighteen had developed a philosophy of four words. It took the place of the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments, and the Catechism. It was: "Mind your own business."

True to his promise, Palmer awakened the sleeping boy before nine o'clock. Grace had eaten little and drunk nothing; but Howe was slightly stimulated.

"Give her the 'once over,'" he told Johnny, "and then go back and crawl into the rags again. I'll drive in."

Grace sat beside him. Their progress was slow and rough over the country roads, but when they reached the state road Howe threw open the throttle. He drove well. The liquor was in his blood. He took chances and got away with them, laughing at the girl's gasps of dismay.

"Wait until I get beyond Simkinsville," he said, "and I'll let her out. You're going to travel tonight, honey."

The girl sat beside him with her eyes fixed ahead. He had been drinking, and the warmth of the liquor was in his voice. She was determined on one thing. She was going to make him live up to the letter of his promise to go away at the house door; and more and more she realized that it would be difficult. His mood was reckless, masterful. Instead of laughing when she drew back from a proffered caress, he turned surly. Obstinate lines that she remembered appeared from his nostrils to the corners of his mouth. She was uneasy.

Finally she bit on a plan to make him stop somewhere in her neighborhood and let her get out of the car. She would not come back after that.

There was another car going toward the city. Now it passed them, and as often they passed it. It became a contest of wits. Palmer's car lost on the hills, but gained on the level stretches, which gleamed with a coating of thin ice.

"I wish you'd let them get ahead, Palmer. It's silly and it's reckless."

"I told you we'd travel tonight."

He turned a little glance at her. What the deuce was the matter with women, anyhow? Were none of them cheerful any more? Here was Grace as sober as Christine. He felt outraged, defrauded.

His light car skidded and struck the big car heavily. On a smooth road perhaps nothing more serious than broken mudguards would have been the result. But on the ice the small car slewed around and slid over the edge of the bank. At the bottom of the delicacy it turned over.

Grace was flung clear of the wreckage. Howe freed himself and stood erect, with one arm hanging at his side. There was no sound at all from the boy under the tonneau.

The big car had stopped. Down the bank plunged a heavy, gorilla-like figure, long arms pushing aside the frozen branches of trees. When he reached the car, O'Hara found Grace sitting unhurt on the ground. In the wreck of the car the lamps had not been extinguished, and by their light he made out Howe, swaying dizzily.

"Anybody underneath?"

"The chauffeur. He's dead, I think. He doesn't answer."

The other members of O'Hara's party had crawled down the bank by that time. With the aid of a jack, they got the car up. Johnny Rosenfeld lay doubled on his face underneath. When he came to and opened his eyes, Grace almost shrieked her relief.

"I'm all right," said Johnny Rosenfeld. And, when they offered him whiskey, "Away with the fire-water. I am no drinker. I—I—" a spasm of pain twisted his face. "I guess I'll get up." With his arms he lifted himself to a sitting position, and fell back again.

"Huh!" he said. "I can't move my legs."

Dinner Stories

"You were something of a fighter," remarked the shade of General Burgoyne.

"I just had to be," replied the shade of George Washington. "There were circulating so many stories about my being so good and truthful and so far above all human foibles that I had to do something to show I wasn't a mollycoddle."

"My husband," remarked a Philadelphia matron to a group of friends, "was a confirmed smoker with a tobacco heart when I married him a year ago, but today he never touches the weed." "Good," said one of the group. "To break off a lifetime habit requires a strong will." "Well, that's what I've got," said the wife.

Barry Sullivan, the tragedian, was playing Richard III on one occasion. When the actor came to the words, "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" some one from the gallery called out, "Wouldn't a donkey do us well, Mr. Sullivan?" "Yes," replied the tragedian, turning quickly to the interrupter, please come around to the stage door.

"My husband goes out every evening for a little constitutional," said one woman to another. Then she inquired, "Does yours?" "No," replied the other. "No, my husband always keeps it in the house." "Does your husband believe in prohibition?" "About the same as he does in ghosts. He admits that there might be such a thing, and the mention of it scares him dreadfully."

"There are some ugly features in every business."

Increase in Gazette Advertising Rates, Effective January 1, 1917

The advertising rates for the Daily Gazette will be advanced on January 1, 1917, as per the schedule published herewith. Under present conditions rates may be increased without notice.

THE RAPID ADVANCE in the price of print paper, one of the principal items of the manufacture of a newspaper, as well as the scarcity of the product, is one chief reason for the advance in advertising rates at this time.

The Gazette is called upon to pay an increase of from 50% to 75% for print paper at present, with an additional increase promised later; all other commodities having to do with the manufacture of the newspaper have advanced from 50% to 200%, and some articles are out of the market entirely; at the same time the rates are not greater in proportion to circulation delivered than they were a few years ago. The Gazette is a charter member of the Audit Bureau of Circulation which guarantees to advertisers correctness in circulation figures.

Milton News

Milton, Dec. 26.—Before a well-filled house, the members of the S. D. Sabbath school acted out in classes "A Giving Christmas" in a very realistic manner. The church had been decorated with the usual Christmas decorations built around the central piece of the platform, a large canvas painting representing the Stable of the East, the work of Lester Hull of Chicago. The picture had been built and into this after the presentation exercise each class placed its gift of food, clothing, money or other articles. The program was well rendered and quite impressive, reflecting favorably to the credit of W. R. Davis and his committee. The church choir, being good piece of property. Price reasonable.

Among those who were at their old homes for Christmas were: Prof. W. R. Stewart of Tracy, Minn.; Misses Eleanor and Margaret Dunn of Madison; Miss Arlie Thorngate of Albany, Prof. Julius Nelson of Burlington, Miss A. Cora Clarke of Woodbury, Ind., Miss Laura L.
